

Outdoor upgrades that add value to your property

During the warmer months, there's often nothing better than spending a weekend outside working in the garden or fixing up the house. Sharon Grech, Color & Design Expert at Benjamin Moore, shares some ideas for weekend summer projects that add value to your property.

Deck it out. A great way to make a fresh statement in your backyard or breathe new life into an aging deck is to give it a color makeover. Grech recommends Benjamin Moore[®] ARBORCOAT[®], a premium stain available in several colors and varying opacities, designed to enhance and protect the appearance of decks, siding and outdoor wood furniture. The stain also penetrates into the wood to provide excellent UV protection. "For a modern contemporary look, I love Rustic Taupe or Westcott Navy. For a more classic look, try Leather Saddle Brown," she says.

Curb appeal. The front of your home is the first thing people notice, so keep your front yard looking fresh with budget-friendly landscape projects like adding decorative stepping stones, a small garden or window boxes. Painting your front door is another simple yet impactful project that enhances your property's curb appeal. When choosing front door colors for a dark or brick house, Grech recommends Concord Ivory HC-12 or a classic red like Dutch Tulip to brighten it up and coordinate with bright flowers. If your home is painted in a lighter color, try a more fashion forward option like Wythe Blue HC-143 and complement with a garden of flowers in simple whites and lots of green.

Get your home picture perfect. Thinking of selling? The summer is the best time to photograph your home. Even if you're not planning on listing it until later in the year, arrange to take photos now when it's looking its best.
